MERCHANTS MOVE.

CANTON'S STEPS TO END STRIKE.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

Further news has reached Hongkong with regard to the movements by Chinese merchants in Canton to end the strike. As reported in the "China Mail," the four leading commercial chambers held an informal meeting. The "Wah Tsai Mat Po" has now been informed by cable that a delegate has been appointed to interview Wong Ching-wai, chairman of the Kuomintang Commission of Government, on the subject.

REDS ADVANCE.

ENTERING SOUTHERN KWANGTUNG.

HEUNGSHAN RECAPTURED.

Heungsham is now completely in Red hands again, the anti-Red adventurers having fled without being actually threatened by military force, on account of dissent among themselves as to sweets of office.

The Red expedition against Tang Pun-yun (Chan Kwang-ming's subordinate in the south) has actually penetrated enemy territory and taken Yeungshun, a town near the southern peninsula.

FENG AND CHANG.

THE LATEST FROM THE NORTH.

TUAN CHI-JUI A PRISONER.

(Reuter's Service.)

Shanghai, Nov. 12. There is very little authoritative news from Peking, probably owing to the censorship.

"The North China Daily News" learns from private sources that a telegram received locally states that Tuan Chi-jui is virtually a prisoner in the hands of Feng Yuxiang.

Reports state that Feng's attitude is still very contradictory but the general belief is that there has been a definite break between Feng and Chang Tso-lin, while Feng's most powerful lieutenant, the Honan tupan, Yueh Wei-chun, is reported to have definitely thrown in his lot with the allied forces.

OBITUARY.

MR. T. S. FORREST.

A brief cable from Home announces the death of Mr. Thomas Shaw Forrest, known to his friends in Hongkong as "Jock."

Mr. Forrest retired from reasons of ill-health in 1919 from the service of Jardine, Matheson & Co., Ltd., being at that time in the private office.

From 1897 to the time of his retirement, Mr. Forrest had worked with the Company, his duties entailing his presence in Hongkong, Shanghai and other places in China. He first came East in 1897, joining the Accounts department of Jardine, Matheson.

He will be remembered chiefly in Hongkong for his golfing capabilities, the Championship falling to him on more than one occasion.

His ill-health did not prevent him entirely from following the game at Home and his name was noticed recently in the St. Andrew's tournament at the end of the summer.

Mr. Forrest visited Hongkong in the winter of 1920-1.

TO-DAY'S WEDDING.

The wedding is arranged to take place to-day at 4.45 at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, of Dorothy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Beard, Weststead, and Joseph G. youngest son of Mr. and the late Mrs. C. G. Meyer.

The Rev. Father G. M. Spada is to officiate.

PRAYA COLLISION.

FIRE ENGINE AND MAIL VAN.

PEDESTRIAN SEVERELY INJURED.

A collision occurred yesterday morning between a Post Office mail van and a fire engine which resulted in injuries to five persons, one of whom is now at the Government Civil Hospital in a critical condition.

The van was standing on the side of Connaught Road near the lane separating the Post Office building from the P. and O. offices. The fire engine with the usual crew on board turned on Pedder Street near the statue, and through some circumstance which is now being investigated, struck the mail van in the rear. The force of the impact was so strong that the van destroyed an electric lamp post and ran a distance of about 30 feet before it was brought to a halt by striking the pillar on the pavement at the entrance to the P. and O. building.

The van being empty, and with

GOOD RESULTS.

EXCELLENT POPPY DAY RESPONSE.

$300 CHEQUE FOR ONE!

It is impossible at the present time to give the separate or total amounts of sums collected as a result of the Poppy Day efforts for Mr. Baig's fund, but the organisers have enough indications to justify them in stating that the sum is in excess of the one they expected under present conditions. The final total will, however, and perhaps naturally so, be less than last year's, which was regarded as very much in the nature of a "bumper" sum.

Boxes from ships and organisations are still coming in, as also are reports from the holders. The general trend of these is that money was "tighter" this year than last, and notes of high denomination considerably scarcer. However one of the first poppies to be sold was in the Hongkong Hotel and a local gentleman signed a cheque for $300 for it!

SWATOW POSITION.

ANTI-BRITISH EMBARGO CONTINUES.

LABOUR CHIEF'S POWER.

Three ships with Hongkong cargo on board—one Chinese, one Japanese and one Portuguese—were held up at Swatow on Monday when ready to discharge.

On Monday night, the Swatow branch of the Seamen's Union held a meeting and it was decided that the consignees had not given the Union sufficient notice, the merchants would have to pay $1,000 for each ship. On the money being handed over the vessels discharged on Tuesday without any further difficulty. On Wednesday the steamers were allowed to take on cargo, not for Hongkong but for Chinese ports in the South.

The s.s. "Anhui" entered Swatow from Singapore. Her passengers were permitted to land, but she was not allowed to take either cargo or passengers for Amoy as the strike pickets on

PARCELS NEXT.

PROPOSED WEATHER STATION.

BOON TO MARINERS.

From an official Chinese representative at present in Hongkong, it is learned that the Paracels group and if the report is favourable, work of building a meteorological station there in addition to that on Pratas will be immediately put in hand, direction being under the Chinese Admiralty.

If conditions are favourable it is anticipated that the station will be in operation in about five months' time.

The value of this station will be considerable, principally to shipping south of Hongkong, in the neighbourhood of Hainan, which at present is without means of information of the movements of typhoons which take a more westerly curve than those striking Pratas. A typhoon of this nature often strikes inland and causes havoc at Canton.

LOYAL DUBLIN.

IMPRESSIVE ARMISTICE CEREMONY.

WEATHER AND POPPIES.

(Reuter's Service.)

London, November 11.

In spite of previous agitation and the threats of the extreme Republicans, on account of which the Civil Guards were reinforced by police, Armistice day was celebrated in Dublin in a most tranquil manner.

A cross is to be erected on a French field in commemoration of the 16th Irish Division. It was temporarily placed on St. Stephen's Green and was unveiled in a simple impressive ceremony, including two minutes' silence, in the presence of an enormous crowd which cheered and waved Union Jacks.

After this unveiling the crowd joined in singing "God Save the King" started by Ex-Service men. Many wreaths were placed on the cross and poppies sold readily.

ANITATIONS REMOVED.

Miss Maud Gonne, Mrs. McBride, and other lady republicans, were removed from the crowd by the police for their own protection.

They were carrying placards dealing with prisoners in jail.

PANIC AT NIGHT.

Fifteen people were injured by panic caused by the throwing of smoke bombs and fights between rival sections after the armistice celebrations in Dublin. Ex-Corporal Oates succumbed to injuries.

After midnight the Republicans demonstrated in the streets and broke the windows of the Masonic Hall.

Elaborate police precautions prevented conflicts and detectives following the procession in a car fired over the heads of the demonstrators for the purpose of clearing the streets.

"WELL BOWLED, SIR."

FAREWELL TO SIR CLAUD SEVERN.

UNIVERSITY APPRECIATION.

Of all the functions he had had to attend during his last few days in the Colony he valued none more than his meeting with the members of the Union—said Sir Claud Severn yesterday evening at the University of Hongkong, the occasion being his farewell to the University, the Union of which presented him with a collection of rare books of Chinese pictures and the University Union Cricket Club with a cricket ball mounted on a silver stand. The ball bore the inscription "Sir Claud Severn. Hat trick v. C.R.C. February 7, 1925. From all members of the H.K.U.C.C. It was mounted on three silver stumps, the whole being mounted on an oak stand which also bore a silver tablet inscribed "Well bowled, Sir."

Mr. Ma Char-zur, the chairman of the Union made the presentation of books. He said that Sir Claud had devoted a large portion of his time to the interests of the University. It was mainly with the Union that he had been connected, and he was one of the vice-presidents.

Mr. Ma referred to Sir Claud's work in connection with the ground extension fund to which he devoted his untiring efforts and which was only made possible through his endeavours. Continuing, Mr. Ma said that it now fell to him to convey to Sir Claud the Union's sincere and deepest gratitude. He had to say how sorely they would miss him, for he had endeared himself to the Union. Behind their gift he could assure him there was good will of the very best kind.

"I ask you, Sir Claud, to accept this simple gift of books and I wish to convey to you and to Lady Severn the Union's best wishes for a pleasant trip home and for a happy life in England."

Sir Claud accepted the gift amidst loud applause and the presentation was made of the cricket ball by Mr. A. A. Rumjahn who referred to Sir Claud's excellent work for the Cricket Club. Since Sir Claud had been president the Club had had confidence and it was due to that confidence that the eleven had managed to keep the cricket shield for the year. Sir Claud's work for the ground extension fund had already been mentioned. It was due to that that the pavilion was in such fine condition.

The speaker also referred to Sir Claud's participation in the game and in conclusion imparted the best wishes of the Club for a very happy life.

In reply, Sir Claud said that of all the functions he had had to attend during his last few days in the Colony there was none he valued more than his meeting with the members of the Union. He had been closely associated with the University since it started. He mentioned that he had received a letter from the secretary asking if he would address the members on any subject he chose, and referred to Sir Henry Bamford who said that he could speak at any time on any subject at any length.

Claud's Portrait.

Sir Claud indulged in some happy reminiscences of his association with the University, and referred to the occasion when he was honoured by the conferment on him of the LL.D. degree. He said he wished to thank them very much for their kind gifts which he would value highly.

He added that he had brought with him a portrait of himself, given to him by members of the staff of the Supreme Court on the occasion of his marriage. With the consent of those who gave it to him he wished to present it to the members, and it could find a resting place in the University he would be very pleased indeed. In conclusion he asked them to value the property they had in the Union, and he was sure they would do that.

Mr. Ma thanked Sir Claud for the portrait, which, he said, would always serve as a reminder of his work for the Union. They would never forget the most sincere and sympathetic way in which Sir Claud had inspired them to greater efforts.

The Vice-Chancellor of the University, Mr. W. W. Hornell, remarked that Sir Claud had given the Union some good advice and indulged in some interesting sporting reminiscences which the members keenly enjoyed. Among those present at the gathering were Professor C. Middleton Smith, Professor F. Redmond and Professor F. Forster, Registrar of the University. At the close of the presentation tea was served to the guests and members.

EX-ACTIVES GATHER

ARMISTICE ANNIVERSARY DINNER.

COL. TREVELYAN'S APPEAL.

The annual gathering of members of the Ex-Active Service Men's Association took place this year at Volunteer Headquarters, a good muster of members assembling. The hall was brightly decorated and excellent music by the band of H.M.S. "Tamar" added considerably to the attractiveness of the proceedings.

The Chair was occupied by the Vice-President, Mr. H. J. Pearce, M.C., who read a cable received from the President, Mr. T. T. Laurensen. Members of the Committee supported the Chairman, also the following guests:—Commodore A. J. E. Stirling, C.B., R.N., the Hon. H. T. Creasy, Lt. Col. H. Trevelyan, Mr. E. W. Carpenter, Capt. Bloxham, Lt. D. C. Rycroft, Lt. E. D. T. Churcher, R.N., Mr. J. A. E. Bullock, Mr. H. S. Hill and Mr. W. K. Reynolds.

Mr. J. A. Gordon Leask proposed the toast of the Services. He mentioned the very great pleasure it gave him to be asked to propose the toast. The services were usually considered to be the Navy, the Army and the Air Force but looking round the gathering he saw other services represented as well. He referred to the P.W.D. (Laughter). All the Services made their presence felt. By their salutes we always knew when the Navy were in port (Laughter). As for the Army, well, he happened to live in Kowloon (Laughter), where the Punjab regiment always seemed to be route marching at 5.30 a.m. The Air Force, which he took it was represented here by H.M.S. "Hermes," were about as everybody knew, and also at a very early hour. (Laughter). But they were pleased to have the services here.

"Ex-Convicts!"

Continuing he said that when a man became "ex" in any way he always looked back upon the time when he was "service" with some pleasure, adding, "look at the pleasure of the man who can say—'ex-convict.'" (Laughter).

Replying for the Navy, Commodore Stirling said it was a difficult thing now-a-days to reply for the Navy, more difficult than it was in the old days, for now there was so little of it left. In the recent troubles out here it had been necessary to call on some curious little craft that did not belong to the Navy. It was a very pleasing thing to those who were still "convicts" (Laughter) to know that an association like the E.A.S.M.A. was in force and keeping up the old traditions and he thanked them on behalf of the Navy for a very entertaining evening. He wished the Association a long and successful life. (Applause).

"Stick by the Army."

Col. Trevelyan, for the Army, appealed to all ex-service men to remember their Army days and stick to the Army by joining the Volunteers. In times of trouble the Army would look to them for the help and the help of men who had been trained and who had kept it up would be invaluable. He appealed to such to put up with inconveniences and the irksome nature of some of the activities of volunteer bodies for the sake of keeping things up and sticking to the Army.

The toast of the Association was proposed by Mr. Bullock who incidentally asked why every ex-service man should not be eligible for membership. "If it were confined as it was at present it would be dead in 20 years. If it were more open it could go on for ever."

The Chairman, replying, said he had listened with interest to the criticisms of the last speaker. A difficult question had been opened which he could not reply to at the moment but which he could assure them would be considered.

He proceeded to give a short history of the association from the time of its foundation under the first presidency of Lieut. Mallison V.C. adding that following the formation of it there came into existence the Club. They had been able, he was glad to say, to be of assistance to needy ex-service men and their dependants and he felt that some of their most treasured records were the thank letters received from those the Association had been able to help. (Hear hear). "He hoped they would be able to go on giving such help. He said he felt he was voicing the wishes of the association in remarking on the gratitude they felt towards General Sir John Fowler through whose good offices the Club got one of the best bathing beaches in the Colony. He also paid a tribute to the Club staff which remained loyal throughout the strike this year and to the much respected and liked secretary Mr. T. N. MacReynolds.

Rolling the Bones.

He trusted they would see some of their guests at the Club premises. They would find the association there had a mild form of recreation which was called "rolling the bones." (Laughter). He believed they would find plenty of members willing to give them a leg and an ace and then some. (Laughter).

In conclusion he regretted the absence of Sir Claud Severn and felt sure the members would wish him to say they wished Sir Claud (Gasp) and hoped that one day he would come back to the Colony. (Applause).

Mr. R. S. "Dinty" Moore in typical speech proposed the toast of the guests to which the Hon. Mr. H. T. Creasy replied. He said it gave him great pleasure to thank the association for the very excellent evening they had given the guests. Apart from the pleasure it gave the guests to be present he wished to assure them that they felt it an honour to be invited. (Applause).

Subsequently there was an excellent programme of musical items.

PROFESSOR'S DEATH.

ON THE EVE OF A PROFOUND DISCOVERY.

At the resumed inquest on Professor Lefroy, a friend of the deceased, testified that he and his fiancée accompanied the Professor to the laboratory shortly before the fatal occurrence.

The Professor took them on to the roof and showed them his fly farm. They then went into the poison chamber and were shown vapouring mechanism. Professor Lefroy turned it on and a cloud of practically invisible vapour rose and filled the room. The Professor pointed to a bottle on the shelf and said: "I am not going to touch that because if it falls none of us will survive for a second."

Witness and his fiancée then left as the professor wanted to dry some letters. Later in the day the alarm was raised on his non-appearance.

The pathos of the tragedy is heightened by the fact that a few days before his death Professor Lefroy confided to a friend that he was on the eve of a discovery which would be of very profound importance.

Mr. Moore Hogarth, Director of the College of Pestology, appeals for funds to erect a memorial in the shape of a laboratory for applied biology, to bear Professor Lefroy's name.

A verdict of misadventure was returned.

A friend of the Professor said that on October 10 he noticed that Professor Lefroy was staggering. Professor Lefroy said he had had too much, meaning, the vapour with which he was experimenting on the larvae of flies. He said "the little beggars have got the better of me this time."

G. B. S. ON THE IMPOSSIBILITIES OF FREEDOM.

It is pretty clear that the practical compromises arrived at will leave a section of the community dissatisfied. This is the real problem of the day.

STUDENTS' WELCOME

UNIVERSITY AND THE NEW GOVERNOR.

MR. CLEMENTI'S TRIBUTE

"WHOLEHEARTED SUPPORT" ASSURED.

In the same Hall in which thirteen years previously he attended as Acting Colonial Secretary the inauguration of the Hongkong University, Mr. Cecil Clementi, C.M.G., made his inaugural speech as Chancellor of the University and incidentally his first public speech as Governor of the Colony other than the few remarks at the Council Chambers upon his arrival.

His Excellency the Governor expressed appreciation of the loyal manner in which the students had stuck by their Alma Mater in the recent disturbances and in expressing indignation at the first gesture having come from schoolboy folly said that he found it difficult to conceive of anything more alien to the spirit of Confucianism than the recent happenings in South China and particularly the schoolboy strike.

He assured the University of his sincere sympathy and wholehearted support in all that tended to advance its welfare. If fortune so far favoured him he might be able to meet some of the needs of the University even perhaps, to securing a portion of the Boxer Indemnity.

The occasion on which his inaugural speech was made was the welcome to the new Chancellor and Governor of Hongkong by the University Union. His Excellency was accompanied by: Sir Matthew Nathan.

Mr. Ma Char Zur, Chairman of the Union, welcomed the Governor and Sir Matthew Nathan and said that in February last year they had the honour of entertaining three Vice-Chancellors, and to-day they had the signal honour of entertaining two Governors. (Hear, hear). This was the first time in the history of the University that the undergraduates, voluntarily, out of their enthusiasm and admiration for a great man, had created a special occasion on which to welcome His Excellency the Chancellor. It was a matter of pride to them that they should be among the first to welcome His Excellency. H.E. the Governor was not only a physical giant, but an intellectual giant of world-wide renown. He was a distinguished scholar, author, traveller, explorer and administrator. As a matter of fact, he wrote the University anthem, which was about the only thing they could boast of at present, and which only Dr. Pearce really understood. (Laughter). In welcoming His Excellency, he was sure he was welcoming one who could be relied on to heed the crying needs of the University.

UNIVERSITY NEEDS.

Throughout its infancy, the University had been crying, and until recently the undergraduates and the staff members had been weeping and waiting together. The staff ceased when the super-annuation scheme was carried out, extra quarters for staff members promised and 18 months' long leave freely granted. (Laughter). But the undergraduates were still mewling and puking in their nurses' arms. They were not such a band of scoundrels and rascals as some people thought they were.

With the coming of Mr. Clementi, they saw an era of prosperity for the University. So far they had been living on dreams for the Boxer Indemnity money, and they hoped that His Excellency would get for them a substantial portion. (Hear, hear). His Excellency was interested in the University, and they hoped they would find in him a practical supporter of the University such as they had never had before.

On behalf of the University Union, he welcomed Mr. Clementi and wished him success in his administration of the Colony. He wished Sir Matthew Nathan every happiness in his retirement. (Applause).

MR. CLEMENTI'S REPLY.

His Excellency the Governor, who was received with loud and prolonged applause on rising to speak, said: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Vice-Chancellor, ladies and gentlemen.—It has been a very real pleasure to me to come among you this afternoon, and I thank you for the welcome you have extended to Sir Matthew Nathan and myself and for the entertainment you have given us. My interest in your University dates from its first beginning; for I was much concerned in the negotiations which led to its foundation and its original endowment, and I was present in this Great Hall at its inauguration. (Applause). I had also, while in British Guiana, the honour of receiving from your former Chancellor, Sir George May, an intimation that the University wished to confer upon me its degree of LL.D. and enquiring whether I could attend to receive the degree in person. I had regretfully to reply that I then saw no hope of being able to revisit Hongkong. As, however, I am now once again in Hongkong and am even your Chancellor, I am glad to have this early opportunity of assuring you of my abiding interest in your University, and I hope that if fortune so far favours me I may be able to dry some of those tears of which your Chairman spoke as being shed by the staff and undergraduates. (Laughter)—and even perhaps to secure for you a portion of the Boxer indemnity to which you aspire. (Applause).

I also rejoice at having this opportunity so soon after my arrival of expressing to you my great appreciation of the very loyal manner in which you have supported your Alma Mater throughout the troubles in which this Colony is at present involved. (Applause). Schoolboy folly, as I learn with indignation, made the first gesture in the recent strike and deliberately flouted both education and authority but the undergraduates of the Hongkong University knew better than to participate in a movement so stupid and so injurious to every one who has been misled into joining it. (Hear, hear).

RECENT HAPPENINGS.

In each of its various manifestations this strike has done nothing but harm, but its most outrageous absurdity was the strike against education. After all, what is education? I should like to define it as a process which aims at drawing out from every human being the utmost which he or she is capable of giving in the cause of humanity. (Applause). I would lay stress upon this word "humanity," and remind you of a famous phrase in the Chinese classics, "Within the four seas all are brothers." (Applause). Anything more alien to the spirit of Confucianism than the recent happenings in South China, and particularly the schoolboy strike, I find it difficult to conceive. Allow me, therefore, to congratulate you warmly on the attitude taken up and maintained throughout these troubles by the undergraduates of the Hongkong University. It has been a very great encouragement to those who desire to see the cause of higher learning advanced, for it shows that you in incipient manhood have already put boyish folly behind you, that you have the courage of your convictions and that you are able to see through the specious fallacies of Bolshevik propaganda. (Applause). Many centuries ago your own fellow countrymen Confucius and Mencius saw far more deeply into the social and ethical needs of China than any Bolshevik emissary of to-day, and I commend to you a close study of the Chinese classics as a very wholesome antidote to much poisonous doctrine which is being spread abroad at the present time from interested motives by men who have at heart neither the good of China nor of mankind at large. (Applause).

CO-OPERATION.

This is Armistice Day, and it is well for us to remember that in the Great War Britain and China espoused the same cause. (Applause). As for Hongkong, not only during the Great War but for many decades before and in all the years that have followed it, this Colony has been animated by feelings of the most sincere friendship towards China at large and the Cantonese in particular. (Hear, hear). The present situation from which Canton and Hongkong alike suffer is in no way due to any act either of commission or omission by the Government or the people of Hongkong; therefore, I hope that on this auspicious day those now in authority at Canton will reconsider their position and again hold out the hand of friendship to Hongkong. If they do, we shall clasp it warmly and endeavour by cordial co-operation to remedy the harm which has been done by the boycott.

Gentlemen, I look forward to seeing much of you during the coming months and to acquainting myself with your studies and aspirations, and I desire to assure you of my sympathy and wholehearted support in all that tends to advance the welfare of this University. (Loud applause).

SIR MATTHEW NATHAN.

Sir Matthew Nathan also addressed a few words to the undergraduates. He welcomed the opportunity of putting in a few days in Hongkong as he was passing through owing to his affection for the Colony and the interest he had always since felt in it. He had been fortunate in the first day of his short sojourn here to have the opportunity of appreciating what was probably the biggest of all the new things in the Colony—the University of Hongkong. (Applause). He looked upon it as the most important for the undergraduates were the people who were going to help make the world of the future.

It was pleasant, said Sir Matthew Nathan, to see one's successors doing bigger things than one had had the opportunity of doing and in connection with the foundation of the University, the name of Sir Frederick Lugard immediately suggested itself. "I know," said Sir Matthew, "something at any rate, of the great work of each of his successors, and with perfect confidence I may say I know that better than any of us in helping on this Colony, as well as its University, will be your present Chancellor, my old friend, Mr. Clementi. I may say I am delighted to have been associated with his first visit to the University, and I may add that I am very grateful for the pleasant entertainments you have given to us this afternoon and for the kind references that have been made to myself."

VICE-CHANCELLOR'S THANKS.

The Vice-Chancellor (Mr. W. W. Hornell) expressed thanks to His Excellency and Sir Matthew Nathan on behalf of both the Union and the University. The real sympathy of a man like His Excellency was going to mean a great deal to them. They ploughed a lonely furrow and were sometimes dazed and often despondent, and yet they knew, to misquote Bernard Shaw, that the real joy of life was the being used for a purpose recognised by themselves as a mighty one. They wanted to be a force of good and not feverish, selfish little groups of elements complaining that the world did not devote itself to make them happy.

"The University of Hongkong," continued the Vice-Chancellor, "like all true Universities, aims at training gentlemen in the truest sense of that much-abused term. Those of us who are in authority here rejoice in the courtesy and goodwill which, in spite of the storms which rage round about us, still animates the students of this University. (Applause). We believe that it is in this spirit of courtesy and goodwill, and in this spirit alone, that Hongkong, nay China, will find the issue from its present afflictions."

WHAT IS A GENTLEMAN?

"We remember that it was as he was setting out his idea of the University that Cardinal Newman wrote that 'it was almost a definition of a gentleman to say that he was one who never inflicts pain.' 'He seldom,' continued the Cardinal, 'speaks of himself except when compelled, never defends himself by a mere retort, he has no ears for slander or gossip, he is scrupulous in imputing motives to those who interfere with him and interprets everything at its best. He is never mean or little in his disputes, never takes an unfair advantage, never mistakes personal animosity or sharp sayings for arguments, never insinuates evil which he dare not say out. He has too much good sense to be worried by insults, he is too well employed to remember injuries, and too indolent to bear malice. He is patient, forbearing and resigned. He submits to pain because it is inevitable, to bereavement because it is irreparable, to death because it is his destiny.' Your Excellency, the Union is the centre of the social life of the students of this University. We all want that life to be as free and generous as possible. If the members of this University could, as they go out into the world beyond, take with them, as it is my confident hope that they can and will take, something of that spirit of life and conversation which inspired Cardinal Newman to write those words which I have just quoted—words which burn themselves into the mind—then assuredly this University for all its many and much advertised defects will be doing something towards the deliverance of humanity from those evils which are now so sorely besetting not merely China but the world." (Applause).

The playing of the Chinese and British National Anthems concluded the proceedings.

GREAT FILM HERE.

THE SECOND PART OF THE "NIBELUNGS."

"KRIEMHILD'S REVENGE."

When Carl Laemmle, the greatest producer of films in the world some time ago returned to America from his European tour, he said in an interview about Continental films: "I saw one picture which was really worth while, and the reason I did not buy it for America was because the high contracting parties were in America while I was in Germany. . . . The sheer, compelling and overwhelming force of artistry makes this picture the outstanding European production of many years." This film is the "Nibelungs."

The story takes place around 415 A.D. at the time when out of the vast steps of Asia the Hun under their king Attila swept down upon Europe and penetrated to its very heart, the country around the Rhine. The name history bestowed upon Attila, "The Scourge of God" describes not only the man but more so the character of the peoples he commanded and the devastating horror the invasion carried into Europe.

The picture moves in two widely diverging circles. One of them the court of the Burgundian King at the City of Worms. Here we find Kriemhild, the princess married to Siegfried, the great hero of Teutonic lore, whose adventures as a youth forms the prologue to the real picture. His betrayal and murder by Hagen the sinister member of the royal family furnishes the main-spring of all the following actions. Kriemhild from now on has only one overwhelming desire, revenge for her husband's death. Neither Mother nor Father, neither brother nor faithful vassal will she spare to achieve her end.

And there comes her opportunity. There comes to the Court an ambassador of Attila "the king of the world." He will spare Burgundy at a price. Kriemhild, the widow of Siegfried must come to him as his wife. And through his ambassador he sends her his oath that as his wife no one shall do her any wrong, and no one who has wronged her shall go unpunished.

The second circle is at the Court of Attila. No proud buildings here, no kingly halls. Neither is there finely woven cloth nor courtly manner. But piled up in huge staples there is loot, loot and loot again. All the wealth of the world matted together. A huge room. The walls, made of mud. Fires burn brightly under huge kettles from which rises the steam of boiling wine and blood. Men and women half naked. In their matted hair gleam the proud jewels of kings. In their hairy fists they hold golden vessels. And over it all the smouldering smell of the wilderness hence they came.

And Attila awaits his bride. This white woman of whom he has heard so much, the daughter of a king, the widow of the greatest hero. Here he will receive her among the smell and noise of his hordes. Clean himself as a true son of the desert he has arranged this repulsive scene, planned it cunningly. For he despises this woman before she comes to him, despises her for doing what he wanted her to do, for submitting to his proposal. And he will send her back, insulted, rejected.

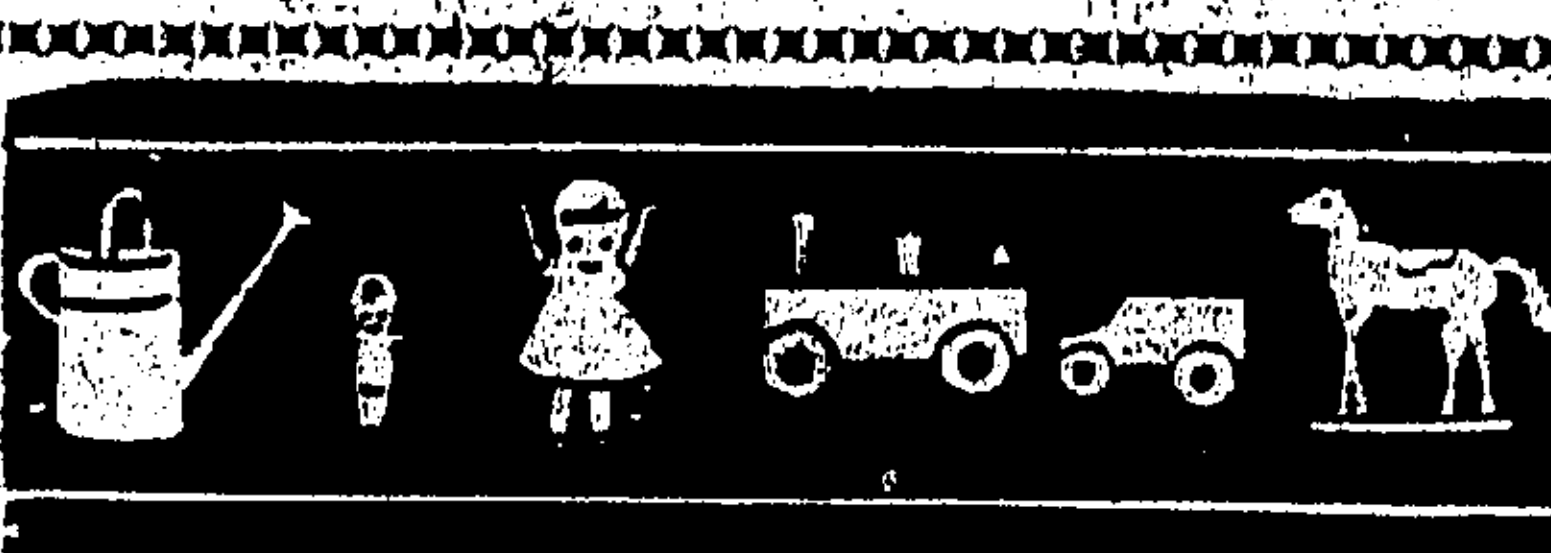

Suddenly he rises. His keen ears have heard the sound of madly galloping hoofs. And there in the door stands his messenger. "Mine is the bag of gold," he yells. "The Queen is coming."

And the king of the world waits amid sudden silence. Like two pillars rises the smoke from two far off watch fires. And between these pillars appears Kriemhild. Her face pale and white seems to hover above the blackness of her widow's gown, and her head wears a triple crown of beauty, sadness and gold. And then she lifts her eyes and looked at the man. And without knowing what he does the Lord of the World, Attila the King walks towards the woman he had planned to humiliate in the very dust. Step by step he walks and her face seems to him like the snow-crowned mountains of his far-away home beyond the great desert.

And into the great silence he speaks to his messenger! "Choose thyself a kingdom out of my empire," he said. "So much I thank thee for this woman."

This is the very climax of this most remarkable picture. The victory of Kriemhild over Attila. Two worlds held their breath when these two looked at each other. Here utter brutality met utter loveliness, and was conquered without a word.

Perhaps, if Kriemhild had forgotten her vow, history might have taken another turn. Perhaps Attila might have become a truly great ruler. But to the woman he was but a tool for her plan. Nothing will lead her astray, not even the experience of motherhood. And in the end she achieves her desire. In a world of blood and smoke the man who killed her husband in far away Burgundy dies, and with him all and everything she ever held dear. With her own blood she seals the pact she made with vengeance.

From the "Manchester Guardian"—A native of the Lake District, in reply to a tourist who wished to know the probable course of the weather, replied, "There'll happen a little bit of a snifter. It dizzles and dozzles and does, but there'll be nae girt pet."

Kneeling in the witness-box at Grimsby, Wu Chang, a Chinese, gravely snatched a saucer and repeated: "The saucer is cracked. May my soul be cracked like the saucer if I do not tell the truth." "Now," said his solicitor, briskly, "you must tell the whole truth. Do you understand?" "Yes," replied Wu blandly. "What does it mean?"

"Home, Sweet Home" was chanted at Wembley on October 10, when the Hongkong Pavilion closed down for good. The contingent of natives left for China on October 16 by the Blue Funnel steamer "Ixion," sailing from Liverpool. A richa coolie should be the first person in Hongkong to see where he is going. One of these excellent fellows wheeling his empty ricksha along Queen's Road, with his eyes in the direction of Garden Road, suddenly found the shafts of his vehicle "parked" in the woodwork surrounding one of the roadside plants. He saw the joke, smiled, and disentangled the shafts.

At a meeting of the British Medical Association held in Bath, a strong demand was made by certain physicians for the passing of a resolution in favour of prohibiting unregistered persons from practising medicine and surgery.

The meeting was about to vote, apparently in favour of this view, when Dr. C. O. Hawthorne intervened. Was the association going to set up a rule, he asked, which would interfere with the liberties of Lady Bountiful in the village and the activities of the curate in visiting his poor parishioners. It was an effort to restrict the subject in one way or the other. "Every man in this country," continued Dr. Hawthorne, winning the meeting to his point of view, "believes that he is competent to drive a gig, edit a newspaper, or prescribe for a friend." These and other shafts of argument and wit went home. The meeting veered around and by a majority quashed the view of the other doctors, "amid," according to Press reports, "hearty merriment."

The sequel to "Siegfried" is being shown at the Queen's Theatre. "Kriemhild's Revenge" is every whit as spectacular as "Siegfried" and with some lovely music makes an interesting entertainment.

The s.s. "Tanada" which arrived from Australia on Tuesday, carried 6,000 tons of cargo, general and frozen, for Hongkong and Japan. During the trip the vessel experienced rough monsoon weather across the China Sea.

Negotiations are said to be proceeding for the sale of the C.P.S.S. s.s. "Empress of Japan," pioneer greyhound of the Pacific, which for the past three years has been lying at anchor in Vancouver harbour, to Captain D. M. Roberts, President of the Roberts World Tours Company. The price asked is reported to be in the neighbourhood of G.$75,000. Built at Barrow in 1891, the "Empress of Japan" is a steel twin-screw steamer with a gross tonnage of 5,940 tons, is 465 feet long, 51 foot beam, and a draft of 33.1 ft.

Hall and Holtz are making a bookcase for the books presented by Messrs. Edward Evans, and the "North-China Daily News" is making the log book for future use in the Camp. The visitors' book will be made and presented by Messrs. Kelly & Walsh. Many other things have been given to the Association by its numerous friends and need not say the Executive Committee are very grateful for this display of interest.

Mr. Ernest Arthur Burrows, solicitor, was at H.M. Supreme Court, Shanghai, admitted to practice by Judge Skinner Turner. The acting Crown Advocate (Mr. A. G. He was going to Hankow to join the firm of Bailey and Perry. Miss L. M. Faithful, speaking at the Annual Congress of the Church of England, said: "Parents are present to look after their children. In the rush of outside interests they hardly ever see their own babies. Many parents are themselves so eager to avoid growing old that they are glad their children bridge the gap of years and then encourage their boys and girls to call them by their Christian names and treat them with a familiarity that borders on contempt. So it happens that there are independence of morals and disregard of the laws of man and God." Miss Faithful, however, did say that she believed an age of greater discipline was just getting under way and that was about the only thing in her address that did not cause much raising of eyebrows among the thousand delegates present.

FIRST DEFEAT.

FLUORIST XI LOSE TO NAVY.

YESTERDAY'S HOCKEY.

Playing their sixth match of the season, the Hongkong Hockey Club lost XI for the first time after five consecutive wins. Although the Club had just as much of the play as the Navy, they went down by the old goal in three.

To the mistakes of the Club full-backs, who fluctuated between the brilliant and consecutive misses, and to the forward line not getting together, must be attributed the defeat. On the other hand, the Naval forwards worked together to advantage, making the most of their opportunities, while the Club attack got in very few real shots at goal. The Navy halves nearly always had the Club attack at hand, intercepting this greater majority of the passes from the Club middle line.

Neither side were at full strength on account of yesterday being a holiday. The teams were—

FLUORIST XI: D. H. Sherman, A. P. T. Parnham, A. S. Hett, E. J. R. Mitchell (Capt.), Rev. E. W. L. Martin, T. J. Price, D. Lyon, W. Woodward, E. P. Stewart and G. P. Lammert.

Early in the game the Club forced several corners. The Navy right wing got going and Sherman cleared well. Throughout the whole match, Simpson (Navy centre-half) played a good spoiling game and was everywhere at the right moment.

Two successive corners made the Navy look dangerous but here the Club play showed up to advantage by the excellent covering-up and understanding in the whole defence.

Price, on the Club right wing, got in two good shots from a very awkward angle; one was saved and the other just went wide.

From a judicious pass by Mitchell, Stewart ran up on the Club left wing. Lammert was in but missed the mark.

Then Collant made one of his characteristic runs on the right and from his centre half scored, just outside the ring a few minutes before half-time. It was a first time shot, taken on the move, and gave Mills little chance.

After the interval, the Navy showed the best stickwork and generally bent the Club for possession. Quicker on the ball, the Naval defence prevented the Club from scoring although the latter were often close in.

Sherman missed badly and let in Collant but Hill shot just wide.

Lammert who was far from well had one of his brilliant flashes just then. Taking the ball up on his own, he shot and a scramble in front of the Naval attack ended in several players falling over one another right in the goal mouth. A corner resulted from the scramble. Stewart took the hit and Martin scored from fairly far out, 13 minutes after half-time, making the score one all.

Mills saved from Stephenson who received the ball from Collant and then stopped a shot from the inside Naval forwards.

Some aimless hard hitting followed with no advantage to either side. Woodward had received little support from the other forwards, tried to break through, but Garwood easily dealt with the very few shots from him. Price again became prominent on the Club right wing. He made several excellent runs but through over-running, failed to centre when well placed.

Continual pressure was exerted by the Club when Wilson broke away. Two long passes across the field saw the ball back to him. Hills left his charge, was beaten and Wilson scored with a cross shot.

Only a few minutes were left in which Woodward missed a difficult chance and Collant missed a gift goal.

TO-DAY'S MATCH.

To-day's match, the Volunteers v. East Surrey Regt., will be played at the Marine ground. (not U.S.R.C. as stated) at 5 p.m.

The Defence Corps team is announced with the exception that T. J. Price takes the place of G. P. Lammert at left wing.

The Hockey International between England and Scotland will be played at the Imperial Ground, Knowle, Bristol, on March 20.

HEATS THIS AFTERNOON.

The Royal Navy is holding an aquatic sports meeting at the V.R.C. to-day, to-morrow and Saturday.

Some heats and diving events will be decided to-day. Saturday afternoon will be given over to the finals.

QUEER FIGHT.

HARRY WILLS WINS IN 1ST ROUND.

FLOYD JOHNSON BEATEN. (Associated Press.)

Newark (N.J.), Oct. 27. Harry Wills won a victory somewhat out of the ordinary in the first round of a scheduled twelve round bout with Floyd Johnson last night.

Harry Wills.

Johnson's seconds hurried the towel into the ring two minutes after the start of the round while Johnson was firmly on his feet.

The crowd was in an uproar from the fact that Johnson was close to a knockout, having been punished badly from the start.

ANOTHER VERSION.

(United Press.)

Newark (N.J.), Oct. 27.

Harry Wills defeated Floyd Johnson by a technical knockout in the first round of what was supposed to have been a twelve-round battle last night.

The fight was a farce from the first blow and the crowd howled with disgust.

In two minutes and two seconds of one-sided boxing, Wills had pounded the handsome Floyd to a pulp and his seconds tossed a towel in the centre of the ring to signify that the fight had gone far enough.

FLOYD JOHNSON

Johnson staggered back to his corner thoroughly convinced that New York sport writers were right in wondering why the bout was ever arranged or permitted.

DEMPSEY NOT SURPRISED.

(United Press.)

Mexico City, Oct. 27.

Every available policeman and four detachments of soldiers were required to handle the throng that tried to greet Jack Dempsey when he arrived here to-day for two exhibition bouts scheduled Wednesday and Saturday. He had little to say about his own prospects but expressed the opinion that no one could be surprised by the result of the Johnson-Wills fracas.

WITHOUT PURE BLOOD HEALTH IS IMPOSSIBLE.

VETARZO BLOOD MEDICINE

Never before was there anything like it, nor are its marvelous properties likely ever to be equalled in disease-curing (see report blood). It searches out and expels from the vital current every lurking trace of poisonous matter, curing blood and skin diseases, scurvy and glandular swellings, badger, abscesses, sties, eczema, gonorrhea, rheumatism, gout or dermal neck, etc. It improves the general health and quickly removes long-standing bronchitis, asthma and hacking, straining, spasmodic cough, too often the precursor of consumption.
